Newsletter Articles, Formation Workshops	Emphasize to the local ministers and their formation directors, the anniversary of the Rule. Regional newsletters included articles concerning the anniversary. In March 2018, the Region held its first bi-annual formation directors’ workshop which had a focus on the Rule. The presentation on the Rule by showing them the instructions on how to put together a “Billy” bookshelf from Ikea. (A pdf file that I had download.) I shared that that, regularly, people just throw things without even looking at the instruction manual. (Especially men) But we were honored 40 years ago to be given our manual for life, our Rule. (By Pope Paul VI and the Church.) We talked about the three Chapters of the Rule... Only one person KNEW what they were. We share why we needed to know the importance of those chapters. We then discussed the “28” articles of the Rule. I DID go a few moments before someone corrected me! We discussed how the Rule was descriptive rather than proscriptive, and why that was important to the life of a Franciscan! There was sharing from the formation directors and their team of ways to share the “instructions” of the Rule without falling off the shelf like a book off an improperly constructed book shelf!	Fall 2017-Fall 2018	David J. Ongoing Formation focus. Day of Recollection	My fraternity has chosen The Rule as the focus of our ongoing formation sessions and Day of Recollection for the anniversary year. In addition, I've been focusing on the Rule when doing formation during Visitations. As far as specific techniques, here are two that we've tried. 1) Choose an article of the Rule and print it out using a very large font. Cut the text into 8-12 pieces (i.e., phrases or clauses). (Small fraternities can do this all together; large fraternities can break into groups of 7-10; you will need additional copies of the article.) After distributing the clauses or phrases, allow a bit of time for silent reflection. Then, members are asked to share, in order, what just their phrase means to them. As well as promoting good sharing, this tests everyone's knowledge of the text of the article. We also tried a variation on this exercise in which each person had to give a capsule summary of what the previous person said before giving their own reflection. 2) Introduce this exercise by giving a bit of the history of how the 1978 Rule came to be written, perhaps mentioning the Assisi Congress of 1969, and the 17 Elements of Secular Franciscan Spirituality that were identified there. Then remind everyone that St. Francis' original Rule was said to be just a string of Scripture verses, and invite them to consider what the OFS Rule might look like if it was just quotes from Scripture. Divide the group into small groups of 3-4. Ask them to work together to identify verses from scripture which reflect the most important components of a secular Franciscan Spirituality, using the 17 Elements as a starting point if they wish, along with their personal experience of how various Scriptures have served as a "Rule" in their own lives. Mention that although the time is limited, they do not need to rush; they will are not expected to have a complete Rule with a verse for every element. Each small group should have at least 1-2 copies of the Bible. Allow at least 30 min for the small groups to work, and then additional time for them to share the fruits of their reflection with the entire group.		Mary Bittner, OFS, National Vice-Minister, mbittner@umich.edu
Ongoing Formation focus	We have scheduled ongoing formation as the primary focus for three different months spaced quarterly throughout the year (one for each chapter). We use the rule itself along with a book titled 'Called to Proclaim Christ' by Benet A Fonck OFM.		Kristi Loar, OFS, Regional Formation Director, Mother Cabrini Region, folkloar@sbcglobal.net
Retreat	A weekend retreat/workshop. There will be six sessions all on formation which is critical to the understanding our Rule and our charism. Topics have to do with our materials, vocation, methods for successful formation sessions (initial and ongoing), the role of the spiritual assistant in formation, and outreach to grow our fraternities. Our goal is to create unity while honoring our diversity, and to build "fraternitas" among those who are providing formation for their fraternities. This relates to many articles in our Rule. Ongoing Formation focus	We are celebrating the 40th anniversary of our Rule by having our members focus on each article by asking them three questions for each article. We have done this at our District Gatherings and will focus on it at our Chapter gathering. We have asked all our fraternities to go through this process during the 2018 calendar year. It is important to us that each of our Franciscans can do three things for each article; 1. Explain each specific article in his/her own words, 2. Write comments about each article, and 3. Write a list of suggestions for living out the article in 2018 and beyond. (pdf attached)	2018	Lee Ann Niebuhr, OFS, La Verna Region Regional Spiritual Assistant, lamnieuhr@gmail.com
